

Ladies in Lavender looks great!

Our April production is coming together in the skilful and deft hands of our Director Richard Finn, who is bringing his vision of what is undoubtedly a heart-warming but technically complex play to stage.

There will be three evening performances (14th to 16th April) and a matinee show on 16th April. Please circulate details of the play to all your friends and relatives, not to mention neighbours and anyone who might be prepared to listen!

Also, if you book tickets you will be able to get discount off a pre-performance meal at the newly refurbished Cock Horse. You will have to book your table by phoning 01622 730144. You can book tickets for Ladies in Lavender by phoning the box office on 07842 169725

Light hearted Words and Music at the Croft, 11th March 2016

Tikki and Blair Gulland bravely threw open their delightful home for this fascinating evening of entertainment as part of the Detling Players' fund raising activities.

David Humfrey excelled with his piano playing, taking us back to the golden age between the wars - and also slightly later. After his first set, Gavin McLaggan showed us how he can bring Shakespeare to life by reciting some sonnets, after which Trudi Caplen's granddaughter Tierney gave us a fairy story with a twist. Made me look at Red Riding Hood in a completely new light!

Following this tour de force, John Watson gave a rendition of Jake Thackray's brilliant song, Sister Josephine, accompanying himself on the guitar - more of a Fake Thackray really - after which he was joined by Kathryn Shirley to perform an excerpt from a bedroom farce, which went down well with the audience. Then Richard Finn showed us the secrets of his success in business through his version of the Beatles' Hard Day's Night, as it might have been performed by Richard III. I have a hunch he will be asked to do that again!

By popular demand, David Humfrey took to the piano again, demonstrating beyond doubt his virtuosity, and then we all repaired to the kitchen for (more) wine and Nibbles. A thoroughly enjoyable evening - why weren't you there??
